The time selected for the purpose - the anniversary of the birth of our National Independence - was well suited to the grand and solemn occasion. The day was auspicious - the heavens smiling cloudlessly above the brilliant and patriotic display. The business houses and private dwellings on the street leading to the Cemetery, were adorned with flowers and evergreens, flags, and banners, and streamers; and the side-walks, windows and housetops, were thronged with men, women, and children, to witness the great procession. Captain Buford, the Chief Marshal, with his Staff, superbly mounted and caparisoned, had every thing in order by nine o'clock, when the line...
